INTRODUCTION

The reports from religious bodies on their officers, statistics, and related information are the main subject matter of this book. It includes data on all faiths as furnished by officers of religious bodies, mainly for the United States. It is the 27th issue of this reference work. The Yearbook of American Churches is published annually. As an annual publication it records the yearly changes of officers of numerous religious organizations, and provides a continuous record of the statistics that are published at regular intervals by the numerous religious bodies. The information consists chiefly of directories and of statistical and historical data.

Among the directories, one is on a number of religious bodies in Canada. The largest directory is the one devoted to the religious bodies, or communions, in the United States. An effort is made to record all known denominations, and to report data for those willing to furnish documentary information. A few have declined to furnish information. The names and addresses of these are given, with a note indicating information has been declined. The aim of the Editor is to be inclusive, to expand the coverage, and not to pass judgment on the nature of the program carried on. One directory, "Service Agencies," includes organizations other than religious, because it is believed that officers of church agencies wish to know the names of the officers and the addresses of these agencies.

The "latest information" on statistics is given under categories of church membership, religious education, clergy, and finance. These figures are requested for Continental United States, i.e., the 48 states and the District of Columbia, and thus are not always the total official figures published by a given religious body, because some denominations in the U.S. include members in Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, or even in other nations. The purpose in presenting a compilation for Continental U.S. is to provide data comparable with previous tabulations.

Studies of trends, comparing the latest statistics with those of prior years, are made for the purpose of aiding those who wish to make comparisons.

State and local councils are listed in three sections: those with paid leadership, those with voluntary leadership, and the state organizations of church women. It is understood that the local councils of church men are reported under the state and local councils of churches.

The user of this volume deserves a frank word concerning its limitations. A few of the directories do not contain every institution or organization in the United States. They do, however, contain large numbers of organizations believed to be needed in a national listing. There has not been available the staff time required to compile, or the money to print, the names of, say, every institution training clergymen, or every known religious periodical. Our listings have stood the pragmatic tests of many users.

After long discussion it was decided to use a method of dating followed by a number of publishers of reference works. Thus this "Edition for 1959" contains data gathered in 1958 and presents the latest information secured at as recent a date as practicable for the publication schedule. It is well known that information must be gathered some months prior to the printing of a book.

All the information in this book has been supplied generously by others. It is possible to scrutinize and to check with previous reports the data supplied. Ordinarily, however, it has not been possible to verify these data. If in spite of great care errors have occurred, the Editor will thank the users of the book for corrections which will be made in the next edition.

The compilation and editing of the volume were committed to the Bureau of Research and Survey of the National Council. Executives and staff members of many units of the Council have shown an interest in the book and have gladly helped in the process of preparation.

Highlights

Among the information appearing in this book:

A total membership of 104,189,678 persons in 255 religious bodies in Continental United States is reported by official church statisticians in a compilation of "the latest information." Most of the bodies report figures for the calendar year 1957, or a fiscal year ending in 1957. A year earlier 258 bodies reported figures.

The total is a gain of nine-tenths of one per cent over the figure reported a year earlier. The population gain was 1.8 per cent. The number of Protestant members in bodies reporting both years increased 2.1 per cent over the previous annual total; the number of Roman Catholics increased 3.7 per cent.

The proportion of church members in the population is 61 per cent.

The six major groups report members as follows:

Buddhist	10,000
Old Catholic, Polish National Catholic, and Armenian Church of North America	468,978
Eastern Orthodox	2,540,446
Jewish	5,500,000
Roman Catholic	35,846,477
Protestant	59,823,777

The total number of pastors having charges in local churches is 228,281, reported by 226 bodies. The number of Protestant pastors with charges is 207,790. All reporting bodies gave a total of 355,853 clergy on their rolls.

There is a total enrollment of 40,359,772 persons in 269,331 Sunday or Sabbath schools. These have 3,232,040 teachers and officers. The gain in enrollment was 1.1 per cent for the year. Protestant churches reported 92.9 per cent of the total enrollment, or 37,208,701 persons.

There are 82 religious bodies with 50,000 or more members each, and these reported 102,551,623 persons, or 98.4 per cent of all members of all religious bodies.

NOTES:

Harvest Festivals are observed on appropriate Sundays from August through November.

National Day of Prayer. Pursuant to Congressional Resolution the President of the United States proclaims a Day of Prayer, not a Sunday, once a year. During recent years the President has proclaimed the first Wednesday in October, and the Editor of the YEARBOOK is informed that it is the President's plan to suggest this day every year.

A TABLE OF DATES AHEAD

The following table indicates when Easter and other important festival days occur during the next few years. It also indicates the number of Sundays during Epiphany and after Pentecost for each year of the period. Easter may come as early as March 22nd or as late as April 25th, thus bringing a wide variation in the number of Sundays included in certain of the Christian seasons.

Seventh-day Adventists

This Protestant body developed out of an interdenominational movement that appeared in different countries of Christendom in the early decades of the nineteenth century, stressing the imminence of the Second Advent of Christ. However, Seventh-day Adven-tists were not formally organized until 1863. Taking the Bible as their sole rule of faith and practice, they are fundamentally evangelical, holding to the full inspiration of the Scriptures and the deity of Christ. Their two cardinal points of faith are: (1) belief in the personal, imminent, pre-millenance of the seventh day as the Sabbath.

The Russian Orthodox Church Outside Russia

(Formerly The Russian Orthodox Church Abroad)

Organized in 1920 to unite in one body of dioceses the missions and parishes of the Russian Orthodox Church outside of Russia. The governing body was set up in Constantinople sponsored by the Ecumenical Patri-archate. In 1921 headquarters were transferred to Sremsky Karlovtsy,
Yugoslavia. From the end of World War II until 1950 the Synod was in Munich, Germany. In November, 1950, it came to the United States. The Russian Orthodox Church Outside Russia lays emphasis on being true to the old traditions of the Russian Church, but it does not compromise with official church leaders in Moscow, "since that would amount to being under the influence and direction of a godless State."

In addition to those in the United States, the Synod has dioceses and communities in Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Paraguay, Uruguay, Peru and Venezuela. There are diocesan bishops in London, Paris, Munich, Salzburg and in Australia and New Zealand; parishes in North Africa,
Turkey and Iran, and there is a Mission in Palestine.

Evangelical and Reformed Church

This body was formed on June 26, 1934, by a union of the Evangelical Synod of North America and the Reformed Church in the United States, at Cleveland, Ohio. The union was unique in that it left all details to be adjusted after the union. The Constitution was declared in effect at the General Synod which met at Lancaster, Pa., in June, 1940. The merged boards were organized and on February 1, 1941, took over the work carried on by the two former denominations.

The Evangelical and Reformed Church and the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches united at Cleveland, Ohio, on June 25, 1957, to form

The United Church of Christ.

Pending the adoption of a constitution for The United Church of Christ the present structures and procedures of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congregational Christian Churches respectively will continue in effect.

Evangelical Congregational Church

This denomination had its beginning in the movement known as the Evangelical Association, originated by Jacob Albright in the early nineteenth century. In 1891 a division occurred in the Evangelical Association, which resulted in the organization of the United Evangelical Church in 1894. An attempt to heal this division was made in 1922, but a portion of the United Evangelical Church was not satisfied with the plan of merger and remained apart, taking the above name in 1928. This denomination is Arminian in doctrine, evangelistic in spirit, and Methodistic in church government, with congregational ownership of local church property.

Jehovah's witnesses

"Jehovah's witnesses adhere to the oldest religion on earth, the worship of Almighty God revealed in his Bible as Jehovah. From man's beginning there have been at all times some of Jehovah's witnesses on earth, adhering to the Bible principle of separateness from all parts of the world organization of men. In modern times Jehovah's witnesses are primitive Christians, recognizing and teaching the Bible as God's word of truth, believing it and following its commandments, which accounts for their consistent neutrality toward any nationalistic interests. They use the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society of Pennsylvania, Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York, Inc., International Bible Students Association, and other corporations in their earth-wide preaching activity, and preach to all regardless of denomination. To be one of Jehovah's witnesses one must make an unconditional individual dedication to do the will of Almighty God and then must proceed faithfully to obey the commandments of God and Christ as expressed in the Bible, which course of action is the worship of God and is true religion.

JEWISH CONGREGATIONS

"Therefore, all of Jehovah's witnesses are ministers of the gospel and have no human leader. Their Yearbook shows them active during 1957 in 164 countries of the earth, where there are approximately 716,900 such ministers preaching, teaching the people of all nations that God's word is true and that their only hope is in the Kingdom of Jehovah under Christ Jesus which has been established to rule over earth and which will replace all governments of man. There are now 3,718 congregations in continental United States with 208,260 members (ministers), and worldwide 16,883 congregations." The Methodist Church

The present organization of The Methodist Church began in May, 1939, with the unification of three branches of Methodism—the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal

METHODIST BODIES

Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church. All three of the uniting churches were in unbroken historical connection with Methodism in America. The 1948 General Conference adopted a resolution stating that the Christmas Conference of 1784 is regarded as the date on which the organized Methodist Church was founded as an ecclesiastical organization. At this Conference, held in Lovely Lane Chapel, Baltimore, Francis Asbury and Thomas Coke were elected superintendents and a program of expansion was outlined. The Methodist movement began in England with John and Charles Wesley, leaders of an evangelical revival, and was carried to America in 1760 by Methodist emigrants from Ireland.

Muslims

There are local centers of worship among Muslims in the U.S.A. A mosque, said to be in accord with the full Muslim traditions, was erected in 1953 in Washington, D. C. There are perhaps 15 or 20 places of worship in cities in the nation. There is apparently no general organization, and there are only the most informal estimates of the number of persons affiliated with the local centers. It may be that there are from ten to twenty thousand persons who participate in worship in these places.

The information in this paragraph has been gathered by the Editor of this Yearbook, by means of correspondence and interviews with Muslims in the U.S.A.

Cumberland Presbyterian Church

An outgrowth of the Great Revival of 1800, the Cumberland Presbytery was organized on February 4, 1810, in Dickson County, Tenn., by three Presbyterian ministers, the Revs. Finis Ewing, Samuel King, and Samuel McAdow. Contributing factors to the organization were a rejection by the founders of the doctrine of fatality of the Westminster Confession of Faith, and an insistence that the rigid standards of the Presbyterian Church for the education of the clergy be relaxed in the light of extraordinary circumstances existing on the American frontier. The presbytery for a time sought admission into the Presbyterian Church, but, failing in this effort, developed eventually into a denomination. A union with the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., in 1906 was only partially successful. A considerable segment, to whom the terms of union were unsatisfactory, perpetuated the Cumberland Presbyterian Church as a separate denomination.

STATISTICAL AND HISTORICAL SECTION

This section contains:

1. "The latest information" on church membership, religious education, and clergy, compiled from reports made by the official statisticians of religious bodies, for Continental United States. The figures furnished and here tabulated are mainly for the calendar year, 1957, or for a fiscal year ending in 1957. The methods used in this compilation are more fully described below. The most recent statistics on giving, as reported by a large number of religious bodies in the U.S.A. and Canada, and as published by the National Council's Department of Stewardship and Benevolence, are reprinted in part.

This compilation is a relatively simple or elementary one, presenting only brief summaries. It is completed just prior to printing, and the time schedule permits of no analysis or interpretation. It also contains no estimates by the editor of this volume.

These statistics thus differ from other sets of figures on religious affiliation. It may be helpful to note other types of statistics as follows:

The Census of Religious Bodies, conducted by the U.S. Bureau of the Census, 1906, 1916, 1926, and 1936, was made by means of a form mailed to pastors and clerks of local congregations.

An inquiry among a sample of civilians over age 14, asking the question, "What is your religion?", was carried on by the Bureau of the Census in 1957 and published in 1958 (summarized in the section below). Those stating that they had a religion obviously included not only members of religious bodies but also those with a preference.

A Church Distribution Study, made by the Bureau of Research and Survey, National Council of Churches, reported church membership figures available from the headquarters of 114 religious bodies for 1952, by regions, states, metropolitan areas, and counties. This study is more fully described below.

Various writers have from time to time made estimates of the number of children among members of religious bodies that do not count children in their total membership. No such estimates have been requested by officials of these bodies. Certain data related to age groups are found in a brief article, below.

2. Data on trends in church statistics, in some instances since 1926, in others since 1939.

3. Brief excerpts from recent studies of church developments.

4. Information on recent publication of the Scriptures.

5. A list of depositories of church history material and sources.

1. THE LATEST INFORMATION

CHURCH MEMBERSHIP

The reports on church membership received from official statisticians of religious bodies reveal a total of 104,189,678 persons in 255 bodies in 1957, compared with a total of 103,224,954 in 1956, as published in the previous YEARBOOK.

The total number of persons is equal to 61 per cent of the estimated population of Continental United States, compared with 62 per cent a year earlier, and 60.9 per cent two years ago.

This year, of 267 bodies listed, 255 report figures; a year earlier 258 bodies of 268 listed provided figures.

The total figure this year of 104,189,678 persons exceeds that of 103,224,954 a year earlier by 964,724 members, or nine-tenths of one per cent.

Between 1956 and 1957, the estimated population of Continental United States increased 1.8 per cent.

There were reports from 226 Protestant bodies for both years. These bodies reported 59,808,707 persons this year and 58,567,694 a year earlier, a gain of 1,241,083 persons, or 2.1 per cent. The total number of Protestants this year is 59,823,777—see table below—including one body not reporting a year ago. Last year the total number of Protestants reported was 60,148,980, including one body for which no report was obtained this year.

The Roman Catholic Church reported 34,563,851 members a year ago, and 35,846,477 this year, a gain of 1,282,626 persons, or 3.7 per cent.

An arrangement of the latest information by six major groups reveals the following:

Number of Members and of Churches, by Religious Groups

Religious Group	No. of Bodies Reporting	No. of Churches	No. of Members
Buddhist	1	49	10,000
Old Catholic, Polish National Catholic, and Armenian Church of North America, Diocese..	6	337	468,978
Eastern Churches	19	1,357	2,540,446
Jewish Congregations ¹	1	4,079	5,500,000
Roman Catholic	1	21,327	35,846,477
Protestant	227	279,744	59,823,777
	255	306,893	104,189,678

¹ Includes Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform.

Clergy, by Religious Groups

Religious Group	No. of Bodies Reporting	No. of Pastors with Charges	Total Number of Clergy
Buddhist	1	72	72
Old Catholic, Polish National Catholic, and Armenian Church of North America, Diocese	3	263	336
Eastern Churches	17	1,347	2,351
Jewish Congregations ¹	1	2,902	3,965
Roman Catholic	1	15,907	50,881
Protestant	203	207,790	298,248
Total	226	228,281	355,853

¹ Includes Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform.

There are also Muslims in the United States, but no statistical reports are available. Informal estimates are cited in the directory of religious bodies in this YEARBOOK.

A recital of these trends and data gives rise to the usual questions about definitions of membership. The Roman Catholics count all baptized persons, including infants. The Jews regard as members all Jews in communities having congregations. The Eastern Orthodox Churches include all persons in their nationality or cultural groups. Most Protestant bodies count only the persons who have attained full membership, and previous estimates have indicated that all but a small minority of these are over 13 years of age. However, many Lutheran bodies and the Protestant Episcopal Church now report all baptized persons, and not only those confirmed.

The Church of Christ, Scientist, did not furnish membership figures because of a regulation of that body that forbids "the numbering of people and the reporting of such statistics for publication." In the Census of Religious Bodies, 1936, published by the U.S. Bureau of the Census, there were reported 268,915 members of the Church of Christ, Scientist.

The table giving the latest information on church membership follows:

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

There were 269,331 Sunday or Sabbath schools in all religious bodies, with 3,232,040 teachers and officers, and a total enrollment of 40,359,772 persons.

A year earlier there was reported a total enrollment of 39,904,276. Thus the increase was 455,496, or 1.1 per cent. A total of 230 bodies reported both years; one body reporting for the previous compilation did not report this year; and one body reported for the first time this year.

The Protestant churches, which have generally emphasized the Sunday school, reported 92.2 per cent of the total enrollment, and 92.9 per cent a year earlier. The total Protestant enrollment in this compilation is 37,208,701.

The figure of 2,704,515 persons, furnished by the publishers of the Official Catholic Directory, is that for public school children receiving religious instruction. For the previous year the number was 2,452,595.

For figures on previous tabulations, see Table V, under "Some Trends."

NUMBER OF CLERGY

The inquiry to statisticians of religious bodies asked for information on only two questions: the number of pastors having charges, and the total number of ordained persons. The reports are, as for the previous book, incomplete. Only 226 bodies made a report for pastors having charges.

This year the total number of pastors reported as having charges, in the 226 bodies reporting, is 228,281; the total number of ordained persons is 355,853.

Direct comparisons with previous years cannot be made because of the incomplete reporting. In the previous YEARBOOK there were reported 235,100 pastors having charges, and 349,870 ordained persons in 230 bodies. Many pastors leave the ministry for other occupations or are retired, but their names are often included among the total number of clergymen reported by religious bodies.

The table containing the latest information follows:

In Explanation of the Annual Compilation of Church Statistics

1. This report contains "the latest information," tabulated just prior to the printing of the book.

2. It contains data for Continental United States only. This means the 48 states and the District of Columbia. The purpose in publishing this figure is to make it comparable with previous tabulations made for many years on the same basis.

3. Many bodies, when they publish their total membership, include members outside Continental United States. Thus the figure we publish may be less than the total official membership.

4. It may be that religious bodies will publicly report later figures than those given here, and may even report them about the time these figures are released. There is no way of avoiding this because the various religious bodies make their reports public at different times of the year.

5. These figures come from the official statisticians of the religious bodies. They are gathered by means of a standardized form mailed on the same day to all statisticians. The aim of the editor is to gather the figures from all religious bodies at the same time, with equal procedure and fairness to all.

THE LARGER BODIES

There are 82 religious bodies with over 50,000 members each, and these reported 98.4 per cent of the total number of members, or 102,551,623 persons,

GROUPS OF RELIGIOUS BODIES

A tabulation of the latest information on churches and membership is given for groups or "families" of religious bodies. In the parenthesis following the name of the group or family is the number of bodies reporting figures this year. No comparison is made with a previous year, because in some groups the same bodies do not report year by year.

SOURCES

The data for Statistics of Giving are secured directly from the denominations. This is the only available source of such information. In spite of the fact that these are official reports, it should be noted that differences in denominational record keeping and reporting systems make it difficult to fit all the data into common categories. Every effort is made to provide a consistent and accurate tabulation of the material submitted.

The current report is the 37th of a series, begun by the United Stewardship Council. The United Stewardship Council was one of the agencies merged in 1950 to form the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. The Department of Stewardship and Benevolence of the National Council is the successor to the United Stewardship Council.

The reports here presented are from only a portion of the religious bodies in the United States. Total giving to all bodies can only be estimated, and no estimate has been made during the past few years.

CONCERNING MEMBERSHIP

The per-member gifts here published are computed by use of the figure on membership furnished by the official reporting the data on giving.

Total Contributions is the sum of Total Benevolence and Congregational Expenses.

* Member of Department of Stewardship and Benevolence. ¹ Figures for this body not used in calculation of per member contributions or for total contributions, because not comparable with figures for other bodies. ² Figures for this body not used in calculating per member contributions to foreign missions. ³ Figures for denominational benevolences, reported by this body this year for the first time since 1953, not used in calculating per member contributions to denominational benevolences. ⁴ 1956 per capita contributions have been recalculated to permit comparison with 1957 figures. (Note: Per capita contributions to denominational benevolences as calculated last year incorrectly included Southern Baptist membership figures though contributions in these categories were not reported. The correct per capita contributions to budget and total denominational benevolences for last year by the 40 U. S. bodies should have been $8.24 and $10.84 respectively.)

This official was asked to supply a figure of membership, 13 years of age and over. In some instances, the official reported actual or estimated membership 13 years of age and over. In other instances, the figure furnished was "inclusive" or "total" membership, i.e., larger than the number 13 years of age and over.

The figures on giving are gathered at a different time from the annual compilation of church membership by the Bureau of Research and Survey, published in the YEARBOOK OF AMERICAN CHURCHES.

2. SOME TRENDS

The annual compilation of statistics on church membership and religious education can best be understood by comparison with figures for previous years. In this section available church statistics for earlier years are summarized.

Proportion of Church Members in the Population

Throughout the history of the United States, the proportion of church members in the total population has risen. Data for more than a century are given in Table I, below. In 1850, 16 per cent of the population were recorded on the church membership rolls. By 1950, 57 per cent of the people were so reported. In 1957, the percentage was 61.

Prior to the Census of Religious Bodies, 1926, the basis of reporting members in a number of religious bodies was different from that followed in 1926 and since. For example, prior to 1926 a few bodies reported only heads of families as members; and a few other bodies at about that time began reporting all baptized persons, including infants, as members, instead of only adults. Thus the figures in the table for 1920 and prior years are not on the same basis as those for 1930 and following years.

It is apparent that the gains officially reported were at a more rapid rate from 1940 on than during the preceding two decades. The figures themselves obviously do not tell the reasons. But there is statistical evidence that the people turned to the churches in 1940-57, to a greater extent than during the 20's or the 30's. See Table I, and Chart.

STATISTICAL AND HISTORICAL SECTION

Inclusive Membership of Religious Bodies

The number of church members of all faiths increased from 54,576,346 in 1926 to 86,830,490 in 1950, and 104,189,678 in 1957.

During the same period the population of Continental United States increased from 117,136,000 in 1926 to 170,510,000 in 1957.

The figures for 1950 and 1957 appearing in Table II below include estimates of the number of persons in the armed forces serving overseas, since the church members among those in the armed services are undoubtedly included on the rolls of their home churches.

Members Per Church Increasing

Since 1926, the average membership per local church (parish, congregation) of all religious bodies has been increasing. In 1926 the figure was 235; by 1950, it was 304; and by 1957, 339.

Comparing 1926 and 1957, the increase was 45 per cent (see Table IV).

The total number of Sunday and Sabbath schools in all religious bodies increased from 184,686 in 1926 to 246,240 in 1950, and 269,331 in 1957. (The term Sabbath schools is used to designate the schools of those bodies that observe the Sabbath on Saturday.)

The total enrollment in schools in all religious bodies increased from 23,206,374 persons in 1926 to 29,775,357 in 1950, and 40,359,772 in 1957. For figures for some previous tabulations see Table V, following. For data on age groupings see Table VI.

Protestant and Roman Catholic Comparisons

No precise comparison is possible between Protestant and Roman Catholic figures. Most Protestant churches enumerate as members persons who have attained full membership, usually at age 13. Probably 90 to 95 per cent of Protestant members are over 13 years of age. Roman Catholics regard all baptized persons, including children, as members.

Since 1926, the total membership of Protestant churches increased from 31,511,701 to 51,079,578 in 1950, and 59,823,777 in 1957 (see Table VII).

Protestants were 27 per cent of the total population of Continental United States in 1926; 33.8 per cent in 1950; and 35.1 per cent in 1957 (see Table VIII).

The membership of the Roman Catholic Church increased from 18,605,003 persons in 1926 to 28,634,878 in 1950 and 35,846,477 in 1957 (see Tables IX and X). Roman Catholics were 21 per cent of total population in 1957.

3. DATA ON RECENT CHURCH DEVELOPMENTS

CHURCH ATTENDANCE POLLS

According to sample polls of civilian adults, announced December 27, 1957, by the American Institute of Public Opinion, Princeton, N. J., 47 per cent of the persons interviewed stated that they had attended church during the week preceding the interview.

Similar polls have been made by the Institute since 1939, and the results were summarized as follows.

WOMEN IN THE MINISTRY

According to the Population Census of 1950, the Bureau of the Census has published figures reporting 6,777 women clergymen, or 4.1 per cent of the total number of clergymen, which was 168,419. The figures are for all religious bodies of all faiths, and there are no separate figures according to religious body.

A study of available published reports, appearing in Information Service, May 31, 1952, revealed 5,791 ordained or licensed women ministers, of whom 2,896 were pastors of local churches. Of the pastors reported about one-tenth were in communions affiliated with the National Council of Churches. A precise count could not be made, and the data were limited to the denominations publishing data. The figures could not be compared directly with any other compilation. It appeared that 63 religious bodies ordain women, while a total of 77 bodies ordain or license. Seven of these "give women special status of some sort." For a later discussion, "Women Ministers Today," see Information Service, National Council of Churches, March 6, 1954.

In 1956, the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. authorized the ordination of women, and the Methodist Church granted full clergy rights to women.

CHURCH-AFFILIATED DAY SCHOOLS

In 1952, there were about 3,000 Protestant church-affiliated day schools with about 187,000 children enrolled, compared with about 2,000 schools and 110,000 pupils in 1937. These were nursery, kindergarten and elementary schools. The figures appeared in Information Service, National Council of Churches, May 3, 1952. Later figures for all Protestant bodies have not been available.

The Official Catholic Directory, 1952, New York, reported 2,692,706 pupils in 8,358 elementary parochial schools in the Roman Catholic Church, at that time an all-time high for that body. Later figures for Roman Catholics are found in subsequent annual issues of the Directory.

MINISTERS' SALARIES IN THREE RELIGIOUS BODIES, 1939-56

Because there is considerable public interest in ministers' salaries, and incomplete information available on the subject, we continue our canvass of published information on three religious bodies that have reported since 1939. (See previous YEARBOOKS for earlier discussions, begun in the 1953 book.)

The three bodies are: Congregational Christian Churches, the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the United Presbyterian Church. It is possible that the trends in these three bodies are of general interest. The Congregational figures are cash salaries only. The figures for the other two bodies include rental allowance, actual rental value of dwellings furnished, or an estimate of the rental value of the minister's home.

To sum up the data in the table below:

In the Congregational Christian Churches, the average cash salary, in current dollars, increased from $1,769 in 1939 to $4,219 in 1956. In 1956 the average salary in "1939 dollars" was $2,156.

MINISTERS' SALARIES

In the United Presbyterian Church, the average annual salary, including rental allowance, was $1,979 in 1939 and $4,577 in 1956. In "1939 dollars" the average compensation in 1956 was $2,339.

In the Protestant Episcopal Church, the average annual salary, including rental allowance, was $2,725 in 1939 and $5,157 in 1956. But in terms of "1939 dollars" the 1956 figure was $2,631.

A CHURCH DISTRIBUTION STUDY

A total of 80 bulletins, in five series, was published between September, 1956, and early 1958, reporting the results of a study carried on in cooperation with 114 religious bodies. The general title is Churches and Church Membership in the United States; the subtitle is "An Enumeration and Analysis by Counties, States and Regions." The bulletins are published by the Office of Publication and Distribution, National Council of Churches, for the Bureau of Research and Survey. The study was supported by a grant from a foundation and was authorized by the Division of Home Missions of the National Council of Churches.

The study is an effort to gather the statistics of churches and church membership for the year 1952 and to relate these findings to certain data in the 1950 United States Census of Population. All of the 251 religious bodies listed in the 1953 YEARBOOK OF AMERICAN CHURCHES were invited to participate. One hundred and fourteen bodies cooperated. While most of the 137 religious bodies not participating are relatively small, some are large. Among the large bodies not included are the large Negro denominations, the Churches of Christ, and the Church of Christ, Scientist. The total number of members reported was equal to over 49 per cent of the total population of the United States in 1950.

Protestant strength is greatest in the South, and least in the Northeast, while the Roman Catholic situation is the reverse. Wide variations occur among the states when church membership is compared with population.

A listing of Bulletins follows:

- Series A. Major Faiths by Regions, Divisions, and States. (4 bulletins.)
- Series B. Denominational Statistics by Regions, Divisions, and States. (8 bulletins.)
- Series C. Denominational Statistics by States and Counties—the basic data. (59 bulletins.)
- Series D. Denominational Statistics by Standard Metropolitan Areas. (6 bulletins.)
- Series E. Analyses of Socio-Economic Characteristics. (3 bulletins.)

The entire plan is fully described in Series A, No. 1.

DENOMINATIONAL SUPPORT OF COLLEGES

A portion of a survey, Voluntary Support of America's Colleges and Universities, is entitled "Denominational Support, for current operating expenses of Protestant Church-Related and Church-Controlled Liberal Arts Colleges and Universities, 1954-1955." It was made by the Council for Financial Aid to Education, 6 East 45th Street, New York 17, N.Y. (Mimeographed, 1957.)

Two hundred and forty-seven church-related and church-controlled colleges of Protestant bodies participated in the survey. They had an enrollment of 243,153 students and reported total denominational support of $19,200,982. The support per student was a median figure of $104.05, and per church member, 74 cents.

RELIGION REPORTED BY AMERICAN CIVILIANS

The question, "What is your religion?", was asked in 1957 of persons 14 years of age and over in a nationwide sample of about 35,000 households, by the Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D.C., and the results have been published, 1958, in the Bureau's Current Population Reports, Series P-20, No. 79, "Religion Reported by the Civilian Population of the United States, March, 1957." The question, as earlier announced, will not be used in the 1960 Census of Population. Answers in the inquiry of 1957 were voluntary. The "civilian population" as used in the report "included members of the armed forces living off their posts or with their families, but not other members of the armed services." The replies received from the persons aged 14 and over in the sample were extrapolated for the entire civilian population, estimated to be 119,330,000 persons aged 14 and over in March, 1957.

STATISTICAL AND HISTORICAL SECTION

The totals for the nation as given in the report are as follows:

Religion	Total	Per Cent Distribution
Population, 14 years and over	119,330,000	100.0
Protestant	78,952,000	66.2
Baptist	23,525,000	19.7
Lutheran	8,417,000	7.1
Methodist	16,676,000	14.0
Presbyterian	6,656,000	5.6
Other Protestant	23,678,000	19.8
Roman Catholic	30,669,000	25.7
Jewish	3,868,000	3.2
Other Religions	1,545,000	1.3
No Religion	3,195,000	2.7
Religion Not Reported	1,104,000	0.9

It is understood that only those reported in the four large Protestant families of denominations were separately tabulated, and that those adhering to the Eastern Churches are included in the total of "other religions."

The figures are not comparable with official reports of church membership. Those professing a religion included both persons who regard themselves as affiliated with religious bodies and those who expressed a preference.

THE CHILDREN AND CHURCH MEMBERSHIP

For many years one of the more controversial aspects of church membership has had to do with age groups: How many children are included in the official reports of church membership? How many bodies include children, and how many do not? Is it ever fair to compare the bodies that do not count or report children with those that do?

The purpose of this article is to attempt fairly to state the present situation and to refer to available information that bears on the issues.

First, something by way of background. The Roman Catholics, the Eastern Churches, the Jewish Congregations, the Old Catholic Churches, and a group of Protestant Churches already report persons of all ages. Among the Protestant bodies already including children (or baptized non-members, or non-communicant members) in official reports of membership are 17 Lutheran bodies, the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the Moravians. Scores of other Protestant bodies reported to the federal Census of Religious Bodies for 1936 that they had small proportions of their members who were under 13 years of age.

It is understood that the majority of the Protestant churches do not include children under 13 years of age among their members, and that it is their polity, their conception of church membership, and their theory of the church that determine their practice. It may be emphasized that these bodies do not request that children be included in compilations of church membership.

An undetermined number of Protestant bodies do not have an official definition of membership: the members are simply those persons taken into the local churches. Sometimes it is only by custom that young persons are taken into membership at about age 13 in those Protestant churches. The churches in the Southern Baptist Convention are, for example, reported to be admitting as members a considerable number of persons under age 13.

These considerations indicate why precise or direct comparisons cannot be made.

The latest accounting by age groups (i.e., division into those under 13, and those over that age) for all bodies, including estimates for many denominations, appeared in the Yearbook of American Churches, 1945, with figures mainly for 1944. Then all Protestant bodies reported a total of 43,734,661 members, of which 5,201,128, or 12 per cent, were under 13 years of age. The Roman Catholic Church reported 23,419,701 members, of which 6,189,193, or 22 per cent, were estimated to be under 13 years of age. The Roman Catholic figure for persons under age 13 was obtained by applying to the total membership the percentage reported by the parishes as being under age 13 in the Census of Religious Bodies, 1936.

The Statistics for 1956 of Lutheran Church bodies, compiled by the National Lutheran Council, revealed 4,930,456 members in the United States, of which 2,457,720 were baptized but not confirmed—49.8 per cent of the total members.

The Protestant Episcopal Church reported for 1956, 2,852,965 members in Continental U.S., of which 1,017,434—or 36 per cent—were baptized but not communicants.

Five relatively large Protestant bodies in the National Council constituency have figures on the total number of baptized children who have not been admitted to full membership. Their total membership was 13,723,247 (reports for 1956 and 1957), and they reported 3,714,001 baptized children. The uncounted baptized children were equal to 27 per cent of the total membership. The bodies reporting records of baptized children were the Methodist Church and the Reformed Church in America; the bodies furnishing estimates through their official statisticians were the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the United Presbyterian Church, the Church of the Brethren, and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The Bureau of the Census report, Religion Reported by the Civilian Population of the United States: March, 1957 (Series P-20, No. 79, February 2, 1958), was based on a sample of some 35,000 households. The results were extrapolated for the nation as a whole. The Bureau recorded the religion reported by persons 14 years of age and over, and also gave the number of "related children under 14 years old" according to the religion of the parents. The total number of persons 14 years and over stating they were Protestants was 78,952,000, and in these same families there were "related children" under 14 numbering 30,558,000. The related children were equal to 38.7 per cent of the total number of Protestant persons 14 years old and over.

Among reported Roman Catholics were 30,669,000 persons 14 years and over, and 11,757,000 under 14. The number under 14 was equal to 38.3 per cent of the total 14 years and over.

(No account is taken here of some 4,148,000 children in households where family head and wife were reported in different religious groups, because in the separately tabulated results the children were counted twice.)

In the inquiry the question, "What is your religion?", was asked. The respondents obviously included persons who regarded themselves as affiliated with religious bodies and who simply stated their preference. The totals quoted above thus far exceed the official reports of both Roman Catholic and Protestant bodies with respect to the number of persons on their rolls. Inquiries of this sort in other nations always yield the same result. In Canada, for example, many more people report that they belong to or prefer the United Church of Canada, when they speak to the census taker, than the United Church has recorded on its lists.

It may be of significance that in the survey the children under 14 years of age of families reporting they are Protestant are about the same proportion of the total persons 14 years and over, as of the families adhering to and preferring the Roman Catholic Church. In practical terms this Census inquiry would indicate that generally there seem to be about as many children of both practicing and nominal Protestant parents as there are of parents who are both members of and prefer the Roman Catholic Church. The returns of this survey, being based on a sample, are, of course, subject to sampling error.

4. THE SCRIPTURES

THE REVISED STANDARD VERSION OF THE BIBLE

In five and a half years since its publication on September 30, 1952, well over six million copies of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible have been sold. This figure does not include separate editions of the Revised Standard Version of the New Testament, the sale of which has reached four million copies.

In response to public demand, a Pew Edition of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible, using the British forms of spelling, was published by Thomas Nelson and Sons, Edinburgh, in September, 1957. The first printing, of 25,000 copies, was sold out immediately, and a second, larger printing made available as soon as the order could be fulfilled.

Evidence of the favor with which the Revised Standard Version is being received in Great Britain is afforded by quotations from reviews in British journals. The Church Times says: "The Revised Standard Version of the Bible is a work of major importance . . . unlike many modern translations, it is intended for public worship as well as private use." The Church of England Newspaper calls it "the finest version, either for the lectern or the study, which has been produced in the present century." The Baptist Times says that it is "a version sufficiently familiar and dignified not to affront, if read in public worship, and yet intelligible and accurate." Life and Work says that it "has in a unique degree succeeded in retaining the well-loved characteristics of the Authorized Version combined with a new accuracy of translation." The Congregational Quarterly: "Never before has the English reader had the Scriptures at his disposal in a form so attractive, so intelligible, and so faithful to the ancient tongues in which they were first composed." The Jewish Chronicle calls the RSV "an important advance in Bible translation which will be warmly welcomed." The Christian says that it is "the best modern translation that has yet appeared—accurate, euphonious, and readable."

At the meeting of the Fourth General Assembly of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., December 1-6, 1957, each of the twenty-five living members of the Standard Bible Committee was awarded a Citation for Distinguished Service for his part in the preparation of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible and the Apocrypha.

At the meeting of the Executive Board of the Division of Christian Education, Omaha, February 9-13, 1958, the Revised Standard Version of the Bible, which has headed the best-seller book list ever since its appearance in 1952, made news in the publishing world again. Five additional firms were authorized, and have signed contracts, to publish the RSV Bible, beginning October 1, 1962.

Since the Revised Standard Version was published in 1952, an exclusive publishing license has been held by Thomas Nelson and Sons of New York, Toronto, Canada, and Edinburgh, Scotland.

The original contract with Nelson, exclusive until September 30, 1962, will run continuously until 2008 A.D., after which time the publishing will be in the public domain and not subject to license.

"The wide acceptance of the RSV in the United States and its growing use throughout the world in the past five and a half years has necessitated this enlargement of publishing facilities," declared the Rev. C. H. Dickinson, Toronto, Book Steward of the United Church Publishing House and a member of the Christian Education Division's committee on RSV publishing policy.

The five new firms now licensed, in addition to Thomas Nelson and Sons, are William Collins and Sons, New York and Glasgow, Scotland; Harper and Brothers, New York; A. J. Holman Co., Philadelphia; Oxford University Press, New York; and World Publishing Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

In England publishing rights are much more closely controlled than in the United States, Dr. Dickinson noted. "The 1611 edition of the Bible (King James Version, authorized by King James I) is still licensed by the Crown throughout the British Commonwealth including Canada." In this country the King James Version has long been in the public domain.

"The use of the RSV has spread rapidly since 1952," Dr. Dickinson said. "It now is used in the curricula of the boards of Christian education of 35 denominations with a total membership of nearly 39,000,000. Of these, 20 communions with a total membership of 28,500,000 are now using the RSV solely, while the other 15 have it and the KJV in parallel use."

The Revised Standard Version of the Bible is designed for use, not only in Christian education, but in public and private worship. Here, too, its use is rapidly increasing. A significant fact is that well over ten thousand RSV Pulpit Bibles have been sold, and that the publishers are finding it difficult to keep up with the demand.

The natural and most important use of the Revised Standard Version in public worship is for the reading of the Scriptures. Next comes its use in the sermon, as text or illustration.

Here is a paragraph from a letter which I received in January, 1955. It is from a Lutheran minister, after two years of using the Revised Standard Version at the lectern and in the pulpit. He writes: "My holiday work this year seemed particularly precious and blessed. Seldom if ever was I so thrilled and carried away by preaching texts. Never before did our Lord's deity impress me and my hearers more powerfully than during this Christmastide, when on the basis of the RSV it was my privilege to expound and apply Hebrews 1 and John 1, augmented by such readings as Colossians 1, which the RSV strengthens with its rendering, 'in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell,' and the Christmas Epistle, Titus 2: 11-14, in which RSV gives us Scripture's most explicit and powerful expression of Jesus' deity, calling Him 'our great God and Savior Jesus Christ.' . . . I liked the RSV's 'the true light was coming into the world'; also 'the darkness has not overcome it.' . . . I was also intrigued by the connection 'the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth.' . . . I cannot tell you how greatly RSV enhances preaching. . . . Daily I thank God for the RSV and the inspiration it gives me and the impetus it supplies to dig deeply among the riches of God's holy Word."

There are some who advocate the use of two versions, the King James for reading in public worship in the church, and the Revised Standard Version for private reading, study and teaching. This is not a satisfactory procedure, and as a policy is unsound in principle.

To adopt a policy of using the unrevised King James Version in public worship and the Revised Standard Version for education and evangelism, would be hurtful to both worship on the one hand and education and evangelism on the other hand. It would be to make the tacit assumption that truth and understanding are of little consequence in worship, and that the feeling of reverence is best elicited by archaic and obscure language. It would be to prevent the newer version from acquiring those associations in worship which are indispensable to its full meaning for the lives of those who read it. It would be to separate pulpit and pew, worship and life, church and education, yet farther, when these are already too far apart.

The adoption of such a policy, moreover, would be to turn our backs upon one of the basic principles of the Protestant Reformation—the principle that the Word of God is to be made plain to the people in their own language, and that the reading and exposition of the Word is of central significance in the public worship of God. It was for this principle that Tyndale lived and toiled and suffered martyrdom; and for this his successors labored throughout the sixteenth century, until finally the King James Version was produced. All through that century there were many who took the position that Latin must remain the language of public worship and the English versions be kept for less exalted use. But in the end the truer principle prevailed, and the English Bible moved the minds and hearts of the people in public worship as well as in private reading and devotion.

The language of the King James Version is not as strange to the general run of people today as Latin was to the common people of the sixteenth century. But it is strange; it makes the Bible seem irrelevant to life; and it covers errors which have made revision imperative. The same principle that called forth the translations in the Tyndale-King James series, and that led to their use in the public worship of the church, calls today for the use in public worship of a revised version of this same tradition.

The eighty-five years since 1870 have been marked by interest and activity in the English translation of the Bible that are without parallel except in the eighty-five years between the publication of Tyndale's first translation in 1525 and the publication of the King James Version in 1611. Today we stand again at a cross-roads. At no period in history have people needed the great truths of the Bible more than we need them now. It is a good providence of God that has led Protestants, Catholics, and Jews alike to renewed study of the Scriptures and to revision of the older translations in the light of what we now know concerning the ancient text and its meaning. And it is good that in Great Britain, Holland, France, Germany, and so on around the world, similar work has been done or is in progress.

THE REVISED STANDARD VERSION OF THE APOCRYPHA

The Revised Standard Version of the Apocrypha was published by Thomas Nelson and Sons, New York and Edinburgh, on September 30, 1957. This revision of the English translation of the Apocrypha was undertaken at the request of the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and was authorized by the General Board of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., December 12, 1952.

It is published in a separate volume, and is also available for those who desire it, bound in the same volume with the Old and New Testaments, both in the regular edition and in the large-type Pulpit Bible.

A great loss was sustained in the death, March 16, 1958, of Robert H. Pfeiffer, Hancock Professor of Hebrew and other Oriental Languages, Harvard University. He was a scholar of outstanding competence, whose devoted service and good judgment as a member of the Committee contributed greatly to its five years of work upon the revision of the English translation of the Apocrypha.

Two members of the Committee published books in the fall of 1957 which will greatly help the reading public to understand the place of the Apocrypha in the history and literature of religion. One is by Professor Bruce M. Metzger of Princeton Theological Seminary entitled An Introduction to the Apocrypha. It gives a clear statement of the history and character of the Apocrypha, sketches of the content of each of the individual books, and admirable chapters upon the use and influence of the Apocrypha in literature, art, and music. The other is by Dean Floyd V. Filson of McCormick Theological Seminary entitled Which Books Belong in the Bible? In this book Dean Filson answers many questions which are bound to be raised by a generation that has almost forgotten that the Apocrypha exist; he gives an accurate statement of the fortunes of the Apocrypha in the life of the Church, and a convincing exposition of the view taken by the Protestant Churches that they are without canonical authority. The book has a value, moreover, beyond any questions that can be raised about the Apocrypha. It deals with the whole range of questions which may be raised about our attitude toward the Bible. It is in effect an historically sound and clearly reasoned exposition of the doctrine of sacred Scripture, in terms that appeal to the interest of the common reader.

TRANSLATIONS

In 1957 the American Bible Society published, as first Scripture publications in the language, Matthew, John and Romans in Anuak (Sudan-Ethiopia), Mark in Aztec of Guerrero (Mexico), the Gospels and Acts in Beti (Cameroun), Mark in Binukid (Philippines) and in Pocomchi (Guatemala), while the following books were published for the first time in languages which had already some other portions, John in Bandi, 2 Corinthians in Chol, Mark in Ifugao, and in Kiyaka, John in Kpelle and in Loma, the Epistles of John in Mazahua, Luke and Acts in Tarahumara, Matthew, 1 Corinthians, 1 and 2 Timothy in Tarascan, John in Zapoteco del Istmo and Mark in Zapoteco de Miahuatlan. A translation of the Psalms was published with a corrected edition of the New Testament in Kituba and completely revised translations of the Psalms in Bolivian Quechua and Genesis in Thai.

There were still in the hands of the printer revised Bibles in Hiligaynon (Panayan) and Spanish, first New Testaments in Chol, Kekchi, Piro, Ayacucho Quechua and Totonac and a revised New Testament in Cebuano in addition to Mark in Comanche, Acts in Gio, John in Huave, 1 Peter in Huichol, Mark in Kombe, Acts in Mano and in Maya, Philippians in Mazatec, Psalms in Miskito, Mark in Otomi of the State of Mexico, Mark, John and Acts in Palau, Genesis in Bolivian Quechua, and Acts in Zapoteco del Istmo. It is hoped that the revision of the Spanish Valera Bible will be issued by Easter of 1959, but the Brazilian revision of the Portuguese d'Almeida Bible (being printed in Brazil) should be off the press in 1958.

Translations that are progressing include the New Testament in Beti, Bilaan, Haitian Creole, Simple French, Ifugao, Kankanaey, Kekchi, Maya, Mazatec, Palau, Popular Spanish and Tarascan, Old Testaments in Bolivian Quechua and Kipende. Revisions are underway in the following: Arabic, Modern Western Armenian, Bicol (New Testament), Bulu, Cebuano, Ibanag and Ilocano (New Testaments), Luba-Lulua, Thai (Old Testament), and New Testaments in Meninka, Moré, Otetela, Pampangan, Samarenyo. Translations and revisions were examined in 67 languages and dialects.

At the end of 1957 the whole Bible had been published in 215 languages and dialects, a complete New Testament in 270 more and at least a complete book in 642 more, making a total of 1127 languages and dialects in which a complete book of the Bible or more has been published by any publisher during the 500 years since the publication of the Gutenberg Bible. Most of these Scriptures have been published by the various Bible Societies.

CONFRATERNITY EDITIONS

The St. Anthony Guild Press, Paterson 3, N. J., has published for the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, the following volumes of Scripture, translated under the auspices of the Episcopal Committee of the Confraternity:

The New Testament

First edition, 1941. In the course of various subsequent reprintings, numerous corrections and emendations were made piecemeal; these are listed collectively in the records as the second edition. The third, and definitive, edition was published in 1947. Subsequently there have been reprints.

The Old Testament

The Book of Genesis:

First printing, 1948. Second printing, with slight emendations, 1949. A third printing, using the 1949 text and including at the end of the book a set of discussion questions, was made in 1950 for the Most Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara, who made it the discussion-club text for that year in all the clubs of his diocese (Kansas City, Mo.). This book, with final corrections, was incorporated in Volume I of the Old Testament, 1952 (see below).

The Book of Psalms:

First printing, 1950. This book, with final corrections, was incorporated in Volume III of the Old Testament (see below).

The Old Testament, Historical Books, Volume I: Genesis-Ruth. First edition, 1952. Second edition, 1953. This is the first of a planned 4-volume translation of the Old Testament (see next entry).

The Old Testament, Sapiential Books, Volume III: Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Canticle of Canticles, Wisdom, Sirach (Ecclesiasticus). First edition, 1955. Volume II, comprising the remainder of the historical books, and Volume IV, the prophetical books, will appear in due course.

NEW EDITION OF THE TALMUD

A new and revised edition of the ancient Talmud is being printed for the first time in 77 years by the World Academy in Jerusalem. For the first time in history, the Talmud will be punctuated, and will include a digest of unpublished commentaries going back to the 11th century which have been gathered from the four corners of the earth. These valuable documents have been made available from the world's leading libraries and private collections, including the Vatican, Bodleian, Oxford and Columbia University. The last edition of the Talmud was printed by the Rom Press of Vilna, 1880-1886.

At the World Academy's Talmudic Institute in Jerusalem, over one million cross-reference cards have been compiled by its many Rabbinic scholars and research workers. The Talmud, to be printed in the Holy Land, contains thirty volumes, approximately 600 large folio pages per volume and will appear in single volume successively. The first volume is expected off the press in 1959.

In the revised edition, a variety of items such as garments, vessels, foods, instruments, diseases, seed, animals, plant and so forth will be carefully defined. Names of men and places, also, will be identified and placed in their historical and geographical setting. Obscure words of foreign origin, Greek, Roman, Persian, and Arabic, will be traced and explained.

The literature in the Talmud embraces a period of about 1,000 years (500 B.C.E.—500 C.E.). The first known printed treatise of the Talmud was released in Spain about 1475, shortly before the Spanish Inquisition. During the succeeding 400 years, about 70 different editions of the Talmud were printed in Spain, Italy, Portugal, Poland, Switzerland, Holland, Germany, Austria, Russia, and Lithuania.

The World Academy maintains an office at 122 West 76th St., New York 23, N. Y.

JEWES PUBLISH BIBLICAL ANTHOLOGY

Three volumes in a projected 15-volume edition in English of the Torah Shelama, "Encyclopedia of Biblical Interpretations," have been announced by the American Biblical Encyclopedia Society, 114 Liberty Street, New York 6, N. Y.

The Society describes the anthology as designed to consolidate in a single collection translations of every known commentary on the Jewish scriptures made over a period of more than 2,000 years. This monumental project has been the life work of Dr. Menachem Kasher, a Polish rabbinical scholar now living in U.S.A., who has been engaged in the work for over 40 years. Some 15 volumes in Hebrew are completed. It is planned to issue one volume a year.

FUND-RAISING SERVICE

with a

Spiritual Emphasis

FOR OVER 50 YEARS this firm has maintained a position of outstanding leadership in the field of professional fund-raising counsel. The now widely accepted plan of short term intensive fund-raising was established by the founder of this firm—the late Charles S. Ward.

MORE THAN $1,700,000,000 has been raised for all types of Religious and Philanthropic Institutions by those associated with this firm. These funds have been used to liquidate indebtedness . . . to build new Church buildings, Parish schools, Rectories, hospitals, colleges, homes for the aged and other Church related causes.

IN ADDITION TO RAISING FUNDS, a basic objective of this firm is to conduct a campaign in such a dignified and efficient manner so as to spiritually strengthen volunteer workers, contributors to the campaign, and the cause itself.

AMERICAN LEPROSY MISSIONS, INC.

156 Fifth Avenue, Suite 1134, New York 10, N. Y.

The fund-raising agency of all mission boards for all leprosy work in cooperation with 62 denominational and interdenominational mission boards, American Leprosy Missions carries on a world-wide campaign against one of the most feared and baffling afflictions known to man—leprosy, now called Hansen's disease.

Each year about a half million dollars is sent to some 160 hospital settlements, clinics and villages in 32 countries where more than 60,000 men, women and children receive the most modern treatment for Hansen's disease.

In addition to providing medicines, food, clothing and other essentials, American Leprosy Missions also builds new hospitals, churches, clinics, dormitories, schools and homes for children.

One of the most important aspects of American Leprosy Missions' present-day program is the provision of rehabilitative and vocational training for arrested cases. Because of the dramatic medical and surgical advances in Hansen's disease therapy during the last decade, hundreds of patients are being discharged from our hospitals each year. The difficulties facing these former leprosy cases, both in earning a living and winning the acceptance of society is one of Christian missions' greatest challenges.

Equally emphasized in our ministry to victims of Hansen's disease is the importance of preventing contagion in children. A feebly communicative disease, Hansen's disease is contracted for the most part in childhood, and after prolonged contact with an open case. Mission settlements, therefore, provide separate facilities for the healthy children of patients, where they may be near their parents but safe from contagion.

Eight area offices in this country carry on a nation-wide promotional and educational campaign to dispel the public dread of leprosy and to stimulate interest in the role of Christian missions in leprosy work; also to bring about a closer integration of lay men and women into the leprosy relief program.

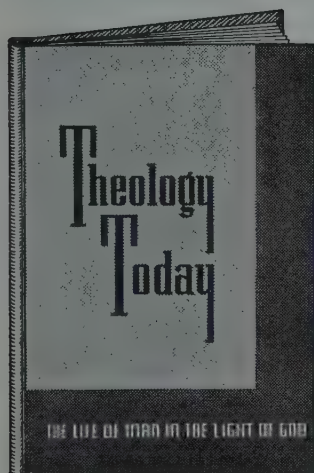

For further information on Hansen's disease and how Christian missionaries are fighting it throughout the world, write for our free literature.

AN EXTRA EXTRA

Dividends, in the history of the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund, have always been like "pennies from Heaven." Members of the Fund family are always being amazed and delighted with their shares in the prosperity of the family.

As a fitting symbol of this ancient and honorable company's service there will be a special extra dividend paid during 1959. Two hundred years of chartered service to the clergy will thus be commemorated. The extra profit will be one-half the regular dividend. It will be paid on all policies in force on December 31, 1958.

It will be an honor to be a Fund policy-owner on January 1, 1959, when, it is hoped, the total of the Fund's insurance in force will reach $200,000,000!
